WYOMING CAPITAL.

Cheyenne Editor Declares it Will Remain in His State.

Publisher W. C. Deming of the Cheyenne Tribune is in the city today. Relative to the proposed change of the state capital, he says the scheme is nothing more than hot air, which will exhaust itself in talk. The state has expended $500,000 in a capitol building, all of which would have been thrown away if the capital had been changed to some other city. Rock Springs, Lander, and Casper are in the field for the site of the permanent capital, but cannot command the support from over the state necessary to bring about the consummation of the wish.

Speculators are especially interested in the move to change the state capital, for it is not only a ready-made gold mine, but it won't work. Mr. Deming reached Cheyenne the most easily reached commercial center in the state of Wyoming, and there the state capital will permanently remain.

What World's Work Has to Say of The "Beehive" State Exhibit.

World's Work: If you climb a short flight of stairs in the palace of agriculture you may gaze down on a lifelike panorama of the "Utah Valley." In the foreground, irrigated grain is growing. Back where reality merges into fantasy, a herd of wild horses is running off into alkali deserts with the snow-capped Wasatch mountains behind. Irrigation, then, tells the agricultural

MR. HAYDEN'S VIEWS

GIVES HIS OPINION OF THE BEST TREATMENT FOR PARALYSIS.

Declares That Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored the Use of His Limbs When All Other Remedies Failed.

The pressure of modern life creates so great a strain that few are free from the dread of using up their supply of nervous energy and thousands are already crippled and utterly discouraged. All such will welcome the account here given of an instance of complete recovery from a paralytic's helpless state by simple means within the reach of every sufferer. It is scarcely necessary to say that a remedy which will cure an advanced and complicated case may be employed with still greater confidence where the preliminary symptoms are recognized and treatment begun at once. These symptoms are briefly: Trembling of the hands; sudden loss of power in arms or legs; frequently, affecting one whole side of the body; staggering, partial or entire inability to use the fingers; distortion of the features, sometimes an uncontrollable quivering of the chin; severe pains; difficulty in speech. Frequently the first warning is a vague feeling of headache, vertigo and muscular weakness.

In a recent interview Mr. W. J. L. Hayden gave the following account of his sufferings and cure. "I truly think," said he, "that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a great medicine for they cured me when physicians and other remedies had failed to give me the slightest relief. I had been giving too much attention to business and overwork brought on an attack of nervousness which finally developed into paralysis. There were times when it was impossible for me to move my hands or feet or get up from a chair. At other times I had partial control of my limbs, but I was afraid to go far from the house for fear I might suddenly become helpless and have to be carried home."

"While I was in this miserable condition, I was stricken with malaria fever and confined to bed for four months. I had the best physicians but, while they relieved my fever their treatment did not entirely drive the malaria from my system, and they did not help my paralysis in the least."

"I was well nigh despairing of ever being cured when a friend persuaded me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. When I had finished one box I could see results that encouraged me to buy a second box. My condition kept steadily improving, and when I had taken seven boxes I was cured of paralysis and the malaria was completely driven out of my system. For two years now I have enjoyed the best of health and have attended to business without any interruption."

Mr. Hayden's home is at No. 253 West 20th street, New York City. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured many similar cases of paralysis, also locomotor ataxia. The pills are sold by druggists. story of Utah where wheat and sugarbeets and alfalfa of improved varieties grow and fruit orchards bear abundantly. The state is now planning to dam the Jordan river and use the Utah lake as an irrigation reservoir against the dry season.

Utah's building is a cozy little yellow structure whose white line inside. In outside exhibits, you find a novel and remarkable school system, in which the pupils' lessons begin with household objects, and annually widen in scope to the garden, the farm, the town, the county, the state, the nation, and the world. In each year, the three R's and all the other studies bear on the field under study. You find in the Palace of Mines bring a salt from Salt Lake, and valuable Utah minerals—uranium, for example, containing radium, and so radio-active itself that a piece of the crude ore will photograph objects on a sensitive plate. The state shows a marvelous vitality in developing its resources.

NASAL CATARRH quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and leavens the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. A remedy for Nasal Catarrh which is drying or exciting to the diseased membrane should not be used. Cream Balm is recognized as a specific. Price, 10 cents at druggists or by mail. A cold in the head immediately disappears when Cream Balm is used. Ely Brothers, 55 Warren Street, New York.

DAVE HILL—MAY IRWIN.

Letter Would Not Deny Report That She Was to Become Mrs. Hill.

A Baltimore, Md., dispatch of Oct. 12 says: David B. Hill and May Irwin appeared simultaneously in Baltimore Monday night. He in a political speech at the Lyric, she in her new play at the Academy of Music.

The jolly actress blushed and tried to evade a question concerning her reported engagement to the former senator. She admitted that she was not booked beyond January.

"Mr. Hill announces that he also is not booking any engagements after January," was remarked.

Miss Irwin looked down and made no answer.

"You see," said Miss Irwin, "I had looked at the Academy before I knew anything about Mr. Hill being at the Lyric, and Mr. Hill was in the hands of his datemakers, so I certainly could not let a little matter of sentiment interfere with business."

"Then it was only coincidence?"

"Now, don't let me of you ask personal questions. I'm not booked beyond January; you say Mr. Hill is not. What the answer? I admire Mr. Hill's politics immensely. I hope he will be secretary of state."

When urged to announce the engagement, if it was so, to put an end to gossip, Miss Irwin looked up more seriously and said: "That is a subject upon which I feel that I cannot say one word. You must recognize how indelicate it would be for me either to admit or deny. I can only suggest that you see former Gov. Hill and put the question to him."

"When did you see him last?"

"No," she returned, shaking her head. "I have quite made up my mind that it will be safest for me to preserve the most complete reticence. Some time ago I resolved that my lips should be sealed. My determination upon that point is more absolute than ever."

STEEL RAILS FOR WESTERN PACIFIC

Order for 65,000 Tons is Placed With the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company.

ENOUGH FOR ABOUT 593 MILES

Whether This Announcement Comes As a Bluff for Harriman Remains To Be Seen.

(Special to the "News.")

New York, Oct. 14.—The new Gould line, the Western Pacific to be built from Salt Lake to San Francisco, has just placed contracts for construction material, among which are 65,000 tons of steel rails to the Colorado Fuel and Iron company at Pueblo, 28 heavy locomotives to be used in construction have been ordered from the locomotive trust the "American Locomotive company," in addition to 200 ballast cars, two ballast spreaders, two ballast unloaders and 300 flat gondola and box cars. This is official.

Yesterday's dispatches told the story of the first mortgage on the Lucin cut-off to Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Harriman's bankers, a situation that would infer whatever has happened to Union Pacific that Harriman still has the Southern Pacific and intends to hold on to it. It will first be necessary for the Standard Oil and Gould interests to get heavily interested in the Southern Pacific before the building of the Western Pacific is definitely abandoned. The Goulds' dispatch would indicate that the Salt Lake-San Francisco scheme is still being agitated, whether as a bluff or otherwise, remains to be seen. The situation is an interesting one and is being watched with a great amount of curiosity by Salt Lake in general.

Counting about 100 tons of rail to the mile this contract would approximately mean steel for 593 miles, figuring on the engineer's basis of 2340 pounds to the ton.

GORE CANYON FIGHT.

Funny Story Regarding Dam on Moffat Line.

The fight between the Moffat road and the New Century Light and Power company over the possession of Gore canyon, 150 miles west of Denver, has assumed an entirely new and altogether unlooked for aspect. The controversy dates back to the time when the Moffat road made its survey through that region, running directly across the disputed canyon. The power company had previously filed on the land and fought the efforts of the road to cross at that place. The case was tried before a special government commission and the power company was victorious. The Moffat road management appealed, and pending a final hearing word of building a reservoir of the New Century company has been deferred.

Now comes a report from what is admitted at the state engineer's office to be a reliable source, to the effect that the United States government has its eye on the canyon for irrigation purposes, and that a survey has already been made by experts, looking into the adaptability of the location for the purpose desired. The government's scheme is a gigantic one, if reports be true. Rumor says that in the event of a favorable report by the surveyors, a mammoth dam will be constructed in the canyon, creating a reservoir of 1,500,000-acre feet. From this the water will be thrown into the natural channels of the Grand, Green and Colorado rivers, and conveyed to southern California. This means carrying water from Colorado 1,600 miles to irrigate a portion of the coast state.

At the attorney-general's office the California end of the story is smiled at. Attorney Miller says that an attempt to take water out of the state to benefit California would meet with a storm of protest and incur litigation, alongside of which the Kansas-Colo-rado river suit would appear insignificant.—Denver Post.

NEW EATING HOUSE.

One to be Erected by O. S. L. in Salt Lake City.

The Oregon Short Line has under contemplation the erection of an eating house adjacent to the depot here and plans and specifications for the structure have been drawn up. Messrs. Lewis and Lapp of the Union Pacific Hotel company were down here from Ogden on Wednesday looking over the situation and left for Omaha yesterday where several changes and corrections are expected to be made on the plans. They will return home next week when it is on the cards that orders will be given for the erection of the building without delay.

SPIKE AND RAIL.

Now is the time to instigate a very interesting sweepstakes pool on the name of the president of the Union Pacific. Marvin Huggitt, however, should be the favorite, while there are some on Railroad Row who would even back E. T. Jeffery for first place.

deteriorate in the slightest degree from his original. The admirable and finished work done by every member of the present company, and especially by Mr. Roberts and Mr. Thatcher, leaves one marveling how they could be improved on.

Mr. Ade's play is the most faithful and humorous portrayal of real American character, which recent stage annals afford. He has all his own humor, some of Bill Nye's drollness, and a great deal of Hoyt's incisiveness, both in his characterization and his dialogue. The local coloring is admirable; one sees on the village hustings and around the village store, the types he has met, and can meet any day in any of the rural districts of our country, and all this wealth of characterization being employed in the delineation of a pretty love story, is to the last degree fascinating, healthy and enjoyable.

Mr. Roberts, an old friend, who was selected to succeed the lamented Mayo, in the part of "Puddin'head Wilson," never had anything better suited to his talents than the part of the keen village politician, Jim Hackler. He had several enthusiastic admirers, and after his strong acting at the end of the third act. Many of the best judges say that Mr. Maclyn Arbuckle, the New York original, falls several points below Roberts in this scene. George Thatcher in the part of the village vagabond darkey, who sells his vote to every bidder, has one of those quiet, deliciously droll parts which he long ago made famous in "The Artist's Model." He is an entire team in himself, and how any original could excel him, one fails to understand. The play is crowded with excellent bits of character work, among the best delineations being the young lawyer of Mr. Lamp, the Brice of Mr. Bradbury, the exquisite old man character of Mr. Burke, the drummer of Mr. Phillips, the sweet little heroine Mrs. Bertha, and a thoroughly artistic milliner of Miss Williams. Miss Florida Kingsley, whom we all remember as the wife of Wright Huntington in the Grand stock days, did a clever bit of the "empire" "chic." Everything about the staging, costuming and general effects was perfection.

"The County Chairman" ought to run to crammed houses the remainder of the week.
